Litteratur

Main literature

There is no compulsory textbook. The main literature is composed of videos, slides and exercises that have been created specifically for this course. You will find all this material uploaded in Athena before the beginning of the course. In addition, a guide (recommendation for weekly planning), listing the necessary pieces of this material that will be accompanying each lecture will also be uploaded in Athena.

While we encourage you to focus on the lecture exercises, you might need more exercises to practice on. For this reason, we also provide you with an exercise compendium which you can also find in Athena.

Voluntary literature

Berk – DeMarzo (2013), Corporate Finance, Pearson 3rd, 4th , 5th or 6th Global Edition.

It should be noted that given the price of this book and the fact that we have created abundant course material (see main literature above), the purchase of the book may be unnecessary. Most students buying the book find that at the end of the term have made very little use of it (if any).
